

speeding as long as no policeman is in sight
Posted by shomerbris - 25 May 2011 13:15

---

This article gives me good chizuk. Although the topic is general, it's easy to see how relevant it is to us GYE folk.

Read it:

www.aishdas.org/rygb/yetzer.htm

A revised version (better, in my opinion) is at page 29 of

www.lulu.com/product/file-download/bigdeh-shesh-%28paperback%29/354642

=====
=====

Re: speeding as long as no policeman is in sight
Posted by lamAdam - 25 May 2011 13:51

---

That closing note about mitzvos being a means to an end is interesting. I've always thought of mitzvos as both a means to a greater end and an end in themselves. To draw a l'havdil-comparison, I've often thought the same of being clean. I'm starting to think, though, that staying clean is mostly a means to an end also.

Hmmm....I think I confused myself. But I enjoyed the article!

=====
=====