

Checking In While Recovery Is Out To Lunch

Posted by Holy Yid - 15 Aug 2011 05:18

Hi it is me, Holy Yid. One of the lucky old timers. I have been blessed to have found this place over two years ago. I did one round of the twelve steps call and was doing much better but lately I have been falling from time to time. Right now I have unfiltered internet access and it is killing my life and soul.

Just sharing so I would not gloat and just give advice to newcomers while I wallow in dirt.

who rides a tricycle besides for dov???

oops! I spoke out of turn again... sorry, didn't mean to leech on to the great one....

Let me rephrase that:

I turned in my SUV, and my roller skates have no front wheels....

Help!

take it one wheel at a time

I am b'h doing better now. I think that in a sense jumping into the program seemed too much to bite off, so I cut corners. I think if I took it "one day at a time" or in bite size chunks I would doing better at it and embrace it more.

Baby steps, step by step. you will find it quite doable. I'm almost ready to take those training wheels off, just not today.
