

honesty

Posted by strugglingandstrivngBT - 19 Aug 2011 15:34

---

I have been looking at stuff around lately, and I see that there are others in my boat, or that I am in theirs. This is proving to be a hard battle, and I cant wait (well, I can and have to, but am excited) to get somewhere safer on the eyes and that I can get into therapy. I talked to my rav about this and we still dont think I am an addict per se, but I do need a doc who is frum and understands the standard I am shooting for, as I do have a problem. The problem is in an addictive setting, but for some reason I cant allow myself to be labeled an addict full on. I think this is because whenever i do that I fall harder. If I just admit I am weaker than others I can set up a system for myself and work the recovery like an addict, being honest and sincere.

I have beat a few tests last night and today. I am also trying to put a stop to the things that get me triggered that I do, as thats all I can do. I need Hashem and His Torah to combat the rest. I need to remember He is there, or I cant do any of this. The next thing I think I need to work on is accepting that I need His help, and getting myself out of the way when He gives it. not just in this arena, but many others as well. I think this might be the first of a journal, and I feel better the support.
. thanks for

kol tov nd Gut SHabbos!

=====

=====

Re: honesty

Posted by obormottel - 21 Aug 2011 17:04

---

Plow on!

=====

=====

Re: honesty

Posted by strugglingandstrivngBT - 21 Aug 2011 19:32

---

with others reading it. Maybe its still a part of being weak, but I can live with this. I have been. Its hard, but worth it. I had a nocturnal that I probably inspired but havent done anything willingly! now I just need to keep oon with that...

=====

=====

Re: honesty

Posted by mechazek - 21 Aug 2011 19:54

---

I hear you loud and clear.Keep on thinking about your g-d,even in middle of your breathless lusting.bring him in right in middle of it.I say: hashem whatever it is that I am looking for in that woman or picture or that fantasy vision let me find in you.What that means to me is that when I see a trigger I have very strong feelings or a strong interest in investigating what it is all about.So I am praying that let me have these strong feelings towards you,such a lusting relationship with my g-d.It works for me for today.Hatzlochah Rabah.

=====
=====

Re: honesty

Posted by gothika - 21 Aug 2011 21:18

---

mechazek wrote on 21 Aug 2011 19:54:

I hear you loud and clear.Keep on thinking about your g-d,even in middle of your breathless lusting.bring him in right in middle of it.I say: hashem whatever it is that I am looking for in that woman or picture or that fantasy vision let me find in you.What that means to me is that when I see a trigger I have very strong feelings or a strong interest in investigating what it is all about.So I am praying that let me have these strong feelings towards you,such a lusting relationship with my g-d.It works for me for today.Hatzlochah Rabah.

That certainly puts a different spin on things, mechazek, I have never thought of praying from that angle before you said it like that.

Keep on Trucking, strugglingandstrivngBT (as we apparently say over here, maybe if I say it enough I'll convince my yetzer to stop pestering me in that regard) and I look forward being inspired by your progress

Nebulamud

=====
=====

