

Chizuk please

i was doing pretty good until now but various circumstances led to me spending the meals this past shabbos with a certain girl (i'm a bachur) and then going on a full day trip with her yesterday, now there were other ppl there so it wasn't yichud and i didn't even speak to her (directly) the whole time, but it was kind of uncomfortable going to meron, tzfat, tiberia. with two ppl out of the six going being the only singles and of the opposite sex, so there we were both davening for a shidduch and it was kinda uncomfortable [was that a run-on sentence?]. but i survived. then last night i had a dream where i watched p**n and started mas*****ing i didn't finish though, i woke up and stopped. so i'm still doing pretty good but i could really use some chizuk.

oh, and did i mention that i said tehilim at the mekomos hakedoshim?

great to hear that HER is leaving soon may the RBSO shower you with bracha vehatzlocho!

i think this calls for some tehilim accompanied by liquid refreshments and some (talented) musical interludes hey guys wanna hear something cool?

sefer chassidim [siman 477] writes "two brothers married to two sisters, one of them will die, or one of them will not be matzliach (i think that means they won't have kids)" he goes on to say that even bidieved if they already got married! they should divorce. he says this only in regard to 2 bros married to 2 sisters, but in his tzavaah (siman 33) he writes that besides for that one man should not be meshadech with another man twice at all even son and daughter to daughter and son.

so i had known all of this before but you can always find heterim as far as the tzavaah is concerned and in the sefer he doesn't discuss my particular case, but today i checked out this calculation brought down in a different sefer of rabbi yehuda hachassid (and i'm not giving a maareh makom because in my opinion, this isn't something that should be tried out, and definitely not by already married men) where you can work out a certain formula using the names of a boy and a girl to see if they're suited together. so i checked my name and HER name, and guess what:

they will live long years together unhappy and frustrated with each other!!!

than g-d, i'm saved!

I'm happy for your success, but I think you need to move on and shift your focus to something else in a positive way. Spending too long thinking about her (in small letters), even about your success can be dangerous. Share with us some of the positive things you are doing. The asei tov, not just the sur meira.

you're right.

i would share positive things i'm doing if they would be noigeia to the oilam here. being that they're not and i risk being recognized if i put in too many details [i think i did already] i won't.

I know of two brothers who married two sisters and one of them died in a horrific car accident, so go figure....we did bring up this sefer chassidim when we were trying to make sense of this tragedy....

but on a good note, I agree with Gibbor: if you are not shidduching with this girl, obsessing over her (coming or leaving, or jumping up and down, whatever) can lead to more problems than you can afford to have.

SO zug a kapitel tehilim and move on, chaver!
