

one day at a time

Posted by ilovemywife - 23 Aug 2011 16:12

As I go to other meetings for my other addictions. They all try and bring g-d back into there lives. I thought I had hashem in my life before, but now he is with me more than ever. Just this past week my wife gave me my internet privelages back. Unfortunately I stopped going on this site for a little bit, but I am back now. And hoping to overcome this disease that has overtaken me.

Welcome back!!

Was wondering what happened to you.

Your new life will be really good. And you will be a great source of chizuk here.

This time IS different. This is it. This is real. No turning back.

Great to have you back!

Alex

While your still calling it a privilege make sure you have all the correct filters and mentoring software installed to prevent any further temptations..

stick around my friend - looking forward to see you in the truck park..
