twersky says: marriage is not a hospital

so my dear brother there is light at the end of the tunnel, step through it, and keep on walking towards the light, never look back, to the dark side thats behind you

People far worse off than you have turned it around. Just look around this site.

A woman will absolutely not heal you... At least not from lust.

I hear your frustration my friend, but please be honest with yourself.

I wish you hatzlocho.

If you tried everything and found it impossible to break the addiction, would you please share what it is you tried, so that I don't do the same mistake and not waste time on things that don't work?

In return, I will share with you what ~~did work~~ is working for me, so that this exchange would be mutually beneficial. Who knows, maybe you haven't tried everything?

Please stay on this forum, brother, together we can do it.

Oh, and don't take an innocent woman and make her your omnipotent goddess with healing powers. No woman in the world deserves this kind of treatment.
