

I'm about to FALL!!

Posted by jerusalemsexaddict - 13 Aug 2009 21:26

Allright so as everyone here knows,we on the site often here desperate "call-outs" from people who feel that they are about to fall any minute.Sometimes the emergency units don't have enough time to respond to put out the fire,or are simply unaware of the emergency.

In any case,I am declaring this guardyoueyes's official 911 switchboard.

If there's an emergency of any sort,even a chashash,post here IMMEDIATELY!And well come to your rescue as soon as possible,iy'h.

You can post your emergency here,or give us a link to your thread where you can speak about your emergency.And our volunteers will respond as soon as possible to your calls.

As some people might feel uncomfortable reading women's struggles,I am putting one in the women's section,and whoever feels safe creeping over to the other side of the mechitzah is welcome to go in thereand help.

Wishing everyone the best-Uri

There are a few ways that you can send a PM :

By clicking on either the little quote icon under the person you are trying to write to's username
(There is a little circle in it if he is currently online);

or by clicking the small box on the side of their name (It is green when he is currently online);

or by going to 'messages' on the top of every page.

(among other methods....)

Hi all,

Okay, a quick one. Its been months since I've posted. I was clean for about 130 days until sometime last week. Basically, I became a chosson about two and a half months ago, roughly. I had been doing amazing, my pc is fenced with 2 filters that are really useful, and things were going well.

My engagement has been stressful. Very, very stressful. Not with my callah (who I'm very happy with), but with parents, wedding planning, my mom has been sick, work, have an exam to write, and on and on. Our wedding was something that was really giving me a lot of chizuk once I had been clean for so long - someone to wait for, someone to be loyal to . . .

I've been really struggling. About a week ago I had a sleepless night, and was feeling really really stressed out and my teivas nashim was just enormous - and I found myself in front of my father's pc, and fell. I tried to brush it off and carry on as best I can, but now I just find myself fighting to just walk past it. My yetzer hara is battering me - 'you're stressed, you're tired, you need to relax, don't worry about looking, you're not married yet ...'. Aaargh! I'm so frustrated even feeling like this! I got through the summer here in London without falling, and now I'm really struggling.

I found myself looking at stuff I really really shouldn't be not 5 minutes ago - I'm running away

sigh

Sonic,

I really identify with your situation. During the time I was dating and engaged I always tried especially hard to stay on the straight and narrow.....but as time goes on I couldn't keep it going. I did make it through dating and engagement and then then assumed after marriage it would just wrap itself up and go away.

It didn't.

Lust was there the same as always. Of course I tried even harder to white-knuckle it but at the end of the day in a head on battle with the Yetzer, he is going to win every time. I have not really had comfortable success till coming into SA. I learned to stop fighting it. Yes, you heard me. Stop fighting it. I learned to say "I give up. I'm defeated. There is no way I can beat this in the long term on my own. God, I need YOU to do it for me."

It works.

Sounds strange but it does. So the bad news is marriage may very well not solve any of your problems with lust. Good news is, you don't need it to. There is a solution out there and marriage is not a necessary ingredient for it. I'm finding that the SA program and fellowship are working wonders.

Hatzlacha!

I'm feeling better now, an afternoon spent with a friend just helped me to chill out a bit. I still have a bit of nagging at the back of my head, but I think I have enough to get on with tonight to keep me ok. Boredom I've found is always very very bad news. I just need to watch myself for a few days I think, daven hard, keep busy.

I've davened often for H' to carry it for me and to help me - but I really don't understand what you mean by 'stop fighting and let H' do it for me'. Can you elaborate or explain?

Thanks for the chizuk Jooboy

Will post again if things I find myself struggling.

Thanks,

sR: I won't get into much 'substance' on this SOS thread, but I remember enough about you to know that you have enormous kochos. Just this week, you've already figured out how to escape from an unfiltered computer during a very stressful chapter of life (engagement). Wow.

PM me for more details if you like, but I'd suggest that everything you do now should be focused on the Marriage. Not the parents, not your stress, not even the kallah herself, but on building a strong foundation of a Marriage. As in, "is this choice GOOD for the marriage, or BAD for the marriage."

I know that you want the best possible marriage. So, you'll make the best possible decisions.

PM.
