yea yea - me too!

thought you might like this:

lunar math - the next time you feel like a lunatic, just look up and recognize the Awesome world HE has created for us! (or as Duvid Chaim used to say, we think we are in control and able to PLAN IT, but its HIS PLANET!)

Internet Trend: Lunar Cycle Secret

The Talmud states that the lunar cycle spans '29.5 days and 793 fractions of an hour'. In Talmudic terms, the hour is divided into 1080 parts.

$793/1080 = 0.734259$ hours.

$0.734259/24 = 0.03059$ days.

$29.5 \text{ days} + 0.03059 \text{ days} = 29.53059 \text{ days}$ for the moon to travel around Earth.

NASA Research concluded that the lunar cycle is 29.530588 days, two 1/1000ths of a second short of the Talmudic figure. More advanced research in Berlin came to a figure of 29.530589 days, only one thousandth of a second short of the Talmudic figure.

The Sinai tradition of the span of the lunar cycle is thus corroborated by figures reached via advanced satellites and atomic clocks.

I'm sure the blackberry is in shul so he can quickly notify the gabbai of the possum standing in the corner in the middle of shmoneh esrei without being mafsik b'dibur or startling other
