blocking out Yahoo and Bing image search (and a tip on Google Image search)
Posted by joe999 - 22 Jan 2012 01:44

_____

I've been successful at locking my computer on "safesearch" when I use google images. This way I can still use google images but it blocks really bad stuff. The way I did it was I created a google account, which I made a VERY complicated password to with numbers, symbols, and upper and lowercase letters. I wrote down the password to create the account and used the account to lock safesearch on my computer. NOTE: You have to lock it on every single browser, (chrome, explorer, firefox, that you have), so be sure to save the password. Also it takes a bit of time for google to do this on each browser. After doing this rip up the password!

However, I still have access to yahoo and bing image searches and it is NOT GOOD. I can lock it, but I can also unlock it when I am weak. I need desperate help with this. PLEASE!

==
====

Re: blocking out Yahoo and Bing image search (and a tip on Google Image search)
Posted by Tzvi S. - 22 Jan 2012 03:00

_____

Hi,

Do you have Search Engines / Portals Open and Image / Media Search blocked in k9 web filter?

==
====

Re: blocking out Yahoo and Bing image search (and a tip on Google Image search)
Posted by joe999 - 22 Jan 2012 15:42

_____

I don't have k9, I have webchaver and have their filter as well.

==
====

Re: blocking out Yahoo and Bing image search (and a tip on Google Image search)
Posted by Tzvi S. - 22 Jan 2012 17:48

_____

ad this to the covenant-eyes block list;

www.bing.com/images

i have a app to block yahoo images on windows computers.

send me a email to get the app filter.tzvi@guardyoureyes.com

==
====

Re: blocking out Yahoo and Bing image search (and a tip on Google Image search)
Posted by Tzvi S. - 23 Jan 2012 08:02

_____

BEST is to have www.TheJnet.com they are a ISP and do the filtering on there servers.

they have a special plan that filters pixels of skin color in the images.

Contact info:

1-866-866-JNET(5638) , 1-718-625-5638

718-437-4396

site@thejnet.com

==
====