

Real women vs Online Images

Posted by DesertLion - 09 Aug 2012 14:00

Hey guys,

Just wanted to know if I was the only that felt this way. For me, I find it MUCH EASIER to guard my eyes when I'm in a public area because (a) I'm more on guard, and (b) I do have a sense of shame and know it's rude to stare at a hot girl (she does notice which is embarrassing), and I'm like SH*T, SH*T she caught me looking at her.

But, when you're at home and say bored with work sometimes you may just check out a picture of a hot actress who may be in a bikini or lingerie etc. And since it's not in the flesh, it's obviously not as arousing, and doesn't seem as bad as when you're ogling a real girl. This makes it much easier to slip and then eventually fall.

Anybody else get this?

=====

=====

Re: Real women vs Online Images

Posted by tehylimzugger - 09 Aug 2012 15:38

Sure I get it. Now what? Do I hang my shoulders and nod?

=====

=====

Re: Real women vs Online Images

Posted by DesertLion - 09 Aug 2012 16:38

No i didn't mean if you understood it, i mean if anybody else has this issue as well. Mate i'm not that conceited and patronising.

=====

=====

Re: Real women vs Online Images

Posted by LookingForwardToChange - 09 Aug 2012 17:02

Yep i am the same, its alot esier to watch myself on the street then on the pc!!!

=====

====

Re: Real women vs Online Images

Posted by Machshovo Tova - 09 Aug 2012 17:12

Interestingly, by me it's punkt farkert. In the street or public places I am automatically exposed to sights which I must avoid (I just stepped out to buy lunch, and I encountered more than one such sight). On the PC I can choose to be careful (be"H) and stay away from places that may be (even remotely) triggering.

MT

=====

====

Re: Real women vs Online Images

Posted by Gevura Shebyesod - 09 Aug 2012 17:18

With me it's like MT said too.

=====

====

Re: Real women vs Online Images

Posted by rt - 09 Aug 2012 19:31

Hm. I am like MT and gevura!

yep, to MT i mamash subscribe to each line.

=====

====

Re: Real women vs Online Images

Posted by Gevura Shebyesod - 09 Aug 2012 19:50

Just theorizing here but it may have to do with how the problem started for us. If we began by seeing images (internet, mags, books whatever) then that will be the harder thing to deal with. In my case it started with being attracted to and fantasizing about real-life people. I got addicted to internet p later on, but it was easier to give up since it's not burned in quite as deep.

=====

Re: Real women vs Online Images
Posted by tehillimzugger - 09 Aug 2012 20:13

DesertLion wrote on 09 Aug 2012 16:38:

i mean if anybody else has this issue as well.

All of us has this issue, it's called lust, easier to control- harder to control, what's the dif?

=====

Re: Real women vs Online Images
Posted by DesertLion - 09 Aug 2012 21:28

Just curious that's all

=====

Re: Real women vs Online Images
Posted by JustKeepGoing - 09 Aug 2012 23:25

Lol well then I relate to what DL said very much, I even get annoyed when I want to look in real life but I know I cant because of the situation, Need to give up that lust ARGH!!!

=====

