

Tryin'

Posted by cordnoy - 23 Jun 2013 09:41

Shalom

I am in my 40s married with children

Recently, I decided to get help on a serious level with my addiction .

My mind wanders and the tayva builds.

It would be easy to blame this on the lack of excitement in marriage intimacy, but I had done this at times before marriage, and at times, when marriage bedroom was good, I'd still fall. Perhaps it still is the reason, but marriage stuff is probably not gettin' better anytime soon.

I have more to write, but as this is my first post, id like to hear some suggestions first please.

Thank you so much

C

=====
=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by Gevura Shebyesod - 30 Mar 2017 17:08

I like to think of it as "opportunities for growth". The word "Nisayon" comes from the same Shoresch as the word "Nes" which literally means a flag. Just like the purpose of a miracle (Nes) is to demonstrate to the world Hashem's power, so too a Nisayon is meant to show us what we can aspire to.

=====
=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by LifneiHashem - 31 Mar 2017 10:16

Potato Potahto

=====

====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by stillgoing - 02 Apr 2017 12:55

LifneiHashem wrote on 31 Mar 2017 10:16:

Potato Potahto

=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by stillgoing - 02 Apr 2017 13:03

"yiraishamaim" post=255735 date=1433115807 catid=19

Rabbi Avigdor Miller used to say that Hashem has us on a rotisserie like a chicken he wants us beautifully golden brown on all sides.

=====

I always like the guys who are maaaarich on the inyon of ad'dilo yoda

Re: Tryin'

Posted by LifneiHashem - 02 Apr 2017 13:51

stillgoing wrote on 02 Apr 2017 12:55:

LifneiHashem wrote on 31 Mar 2017 10:16:

Potato Potahto

I always like the guys who are maaaaarich on the inyon of ad'dilo yoda

This one calls it a learning experience. That one calls it a test. The other calls it an opportunity for growth. Aren't they all different words for the same or similar concepts? I read all the above interpretations and pretty much agree with them all & didn't see any contradiction. Why is it offensive to refer to it as a test?

Now I fully agree that to proclaim that one has "passed the test" seems presumptuous and ego driven. After all, last I checked God hasn't spoken directly to anyone recently and told him his plans or what the "test" was. Sure maybe someone held back from p&m, but it's entirely possible the actual test/growth opportunity was to act with humility, and in that aspect the person could have failed/ missed the opportunity.

=====
=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by stillgoing - 02 Apr 2017 14:00

LifneiHashem wrote on 02 Apr 2017 13:51:

stillgoing wrote on 02 Apr 2017 12:55:

LifneiHashem wrote on 31 Mar 2017 10:16:

Potato Potahto

I always like the guys who are maaaaarich on the inyon of ad'dilo yoda

This one calls it a learning experience. That one calls it a test. The other calls it an opportunity for growth. Aren't they all different words for the same or similar concepts? I read all the above interpretations and pretty much agree with them all & didn't see any contradiction. Why is it offensive to refer to it as a test?

Now I fully agree that to proclaim that one has "passed the test" seems presumptuous and ego driven. After all, last I checked God hasn't spoken directly to anyone recently and told him his plans or what the "test" was. Sure maybe someone held back from p&m, but it's entirely possible the actual test/growth opportunity was to act with humility, and in that aspect the person could have failed/ missed the opportunity.

Thanks for the explanation. I thought you were using the Opportunity to Test your spell check.

Either that, or looking for some variety in your pesach menus.

=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by cordnoy - 02 Apr 2017 14:40

Life is all about opportunities for growth.

When one looks at every trivial thin' that happens in his life as a "test" - "nisayon," that is ego-driven. "Oh, look at what God is throwin' at me now. He obviously likes My progress and He is sendin' Me specifically a curve ball to see how it will react on My new level."

"My wife looked at Me funny."

"My friend hurt My feelin's."

"The neighbor poured sand on My tulips."

Yes, of course it's an opportunity, but let's not allow it (the "test") to get to our heads.

=====
=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by LifneiHashem - 03 Apr 2017 13:28

I get what you are saying about viewing everything as a "test" and a means to "getting to the next level."

Would you agree that it's a good thing, ego aside, to train oneself to view life in terms of seeing Hashem's providence as much as possible? That instead of viewing things as coincidence or "the way it is", it's admirable to try to find hashgocha pratis in day to day life?

=====
=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by cordnoy - 03 Apr 2017 14:11

LifneiHashem wrote on 03 Apr 2017 13:28:

I get what you are saying about viewing everything as a "test" and a means to "getting to the next level."

Would you agree that it's a good thing, ego aside, to train oneself to view life in terms of seeing Hashem's providence as much as possible? That instead of viewing things as coincidence or "the way it is", it's admirable to try to find hashgocha pratis in day to day life?

I'm a lust addict, not a mashgiach.

Ask someone qualified.

=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by Shlomo24 - 03 Apr 2017 14:51

I am grateful that I see my Higher Power's hand in my life all the time. I don't think that one needs to see things as a test to achieve that.

=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by LifneiHashem - 03 Apr 2017 15:17

Shlomo24 wrote on 03 Apr 2017 14:51:

I am grateful that I see my Higher Power's hand in my life all the time. I don't think that one needs to see things as a test to achieve that.

Yes, this is the distinction I was trying to make. Its possible to misunderstand some posts on this thread to be rejecting this concept.

=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by LifneiHashem - 03 Apr 2017 15:20

cordnoy wrote on 03 Apr 2017 14:11:

LifneiHashem wrote on 03 Apr 2017 13:28:

I get what you are saying about viewing everything as a "test" and a means to "getting to the next level."

Would you agree that it's a good thing, ego aside, to train oneself to view life in terms of seeing Hashem's providence as much as possible? That instead of viewing things as coincidence or "the way it is", it's admirable to try to find hashgocha pratis in day to day life?

I'm a lust addict, not a mashgiach.

Ask someone qualified.

i was doing poor job of making the point which Shlomo just stated so eloquently.

=====
=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by cordnoy - 03 Apr 2017 16:05

LifneiHashem wrote on 03 Apr 2017 15:17:

Shlomo24 wrote on 03 Apr 2017 14:51:

I am grateful that I see my Higher Power's hand in my life all the time. I don't think that one needs to see things as a test to achieve that.

Yes, this is the distinction I was trying to make. Its possible to misunderstand some posts on this thread to be rejecting this concept.

Il long for the day where I can say truthfully that I see God's Hands in my life.

=====

Re: Tryin'

Posted by Shlomo24 - 03 Apr 2017 19:47

For me it's the realization that without my perfectly planned life I would not be in there place that I am. Only he could have done that.

=====