

Dreams

I dont believe that dreams mean anything in prophesy...yaakov's dream and yosef's dreams had meanings and so did pharoah's but anyone since? probably not...the gemarah is berachot says as much...

but they do make me suffer horribly...

So I dont know if this is the right venue for this but i think my horrible dreams may be related to my addiction...sharing is what this is all about, anyway, no? so here's my dream from last night...tell me if you can decipher the conspiracy against me that is being planned by my id, my ego and my super ego...

please feel free post your (not triggering) dream here and the rest of us:

So I'm walking along a street in the South...it looked like a Florida street but it wasn't Miami...very rural...and I see a very sick mountain lion dying on the sidewalk...it has shed a lot of its hair and is feeble...its head is falling and its barely alive...i am scared of the lion even though its about to die so i decide to walk into a store to call the authorities to come remove the lion...i walk into a nearby store and its being operated by two israelis...they don't understand what im saying in english so i switch to hebrew....as i tell them about the dying lion, i see that on the sidewalk two other healthy lions have appeared by the side of the dying lying and they're helping the dying lion get up...one of the lions is a male african with a mane...the three lions then get up and start pushing against the door as they try to get into the store...i am horrified...i scream at the israelis to call 911...instead they decide to throw little bits of schwarma at the lions to appease them...i am horrified as the lions are breaking in...the african lion gets in first and it runs up to me and pressed its head against my stomach...it wants to be petted...i realize that african lions are not native to southern u.s. and decide the lion escaped from a circus...that why hes not eating me...i am still horrified as the other two wild lions are breaking in....i look into the store and i see my baby son sitting on the floor...i begin to scream...

any ideas?

i recognize that the dreams do not mean that anything will happen in the future...when i ask for meaning in dreams its not like, what is the prophesy in this dream..prophesy is for fools and children and i aint no child...i mean, like, what do these silly but horrifying dreams mean to id, ego and super-ego...

i think that an israeli's answer to all of lifes problems is throw more schwarma at it and see what happens...a deranged sort of twilight zone trial and error....

For various reasons, this fool has looked into dreams a little.

Im not offering any interpretation but wish to share an up side to down dreams.

Chazal say (think Brachos but can find out for you if you really need me to work) that one who doesnt have a bad dream once a week is a rasha. One who has only good dreams is a rasha. And vice versa. Seems the reasoning is that bad / scary dreams are a kapara. A rasha doesnt 'deserve' the kaparah in this world, rather, will have to really experience the things in the next. A zaddik or beinoni suffers via the dream and doesnt need more.

And for those who are suddenly wishing they were RATM and suffering scary lions because "I never have bad dreams, so remember, most of us dream and dont remember any of it in the morning. Our poor partners who were kept awake with the tossing, turning and whimpering probably havent forgotten though!

Hope Im not misquoting; its been a while since I learnt this stuff.

7up...i may be a lot of things but one thing i certainly am, is a rasha....not only a choteh but also a machti...

but i like your explanation...

btw, i believe that when chazal said that today prophecy lies only in children and fools i dont believe that what they meant was the commonly understood meaning: that only children and fools get prophecies...i think they meant only children and fools believe in prophecies....

Well, if youre a rasha; sweet dreams, you're safe from lions and killer shwarma.

sorry, but wrong on this one.

last night's dream:

i am walking near Penn Station in New York City and I run into the president of our shul. He is walking a small shih tzu. (to the best of my knowledge, not a person in my shul has a dog). I see him and say, "hey, i see you have a shih tzu. in my opinion the shih tzu is the dumbest breed of dog. theyre no smarter than goldfish." (whichis my actual opinion about shih tzus). Mr. K then starts crying hysterically saying that he loves the shih tzu and the shih tzu is all he has anymore. Then this hoorible realization that Mr. K's wife has just died or is about to die descends upon me. (to the best of my knowledge, his wife is perfectly fine). I wake up.

Even nevuah dreams have an element of shtus in them. Always.

The dog is dumb, the dream is a siman of long life to Mrs K!
