

Ideas for Teen Corner/Recovery for Teens!

Posted by dms1234 - 27 Nov 2014 23:14

---

I posted this in the Teen corner but apparently no one reads it:

Dear teenagers/wanna-be teenagers/non teenagers,

This corner is not lively enough. This needs to be a place where teens can comfortably post and be a catalyst for their recovery. This corner should be a gateway into connecting with the wonderful moderators: WhenZaidyWasYoung and Skeptical (When I was younger, I was skeptical that those were not their real names, and after getting to know them better it turns out they have REAL names and are incredible people, YAY!)

A teenager is in a very interesting time in his life and i think the Corner can help teenagers grow and mature into fine men. I am no expert on teenager. I am only 22 and therefore just got out (escaped?) of my teenage years (although sometimes i still act like one .....oops sorry teenagers,i mean a bad one). Some ideas on the forum can be dangerous and a teenager has to be extra careful from who he is taking his advice from.

If anyone has any ideas to make this form less dead, this is the thread!

Dms1234

=====

Re: Ideas for Teen Corner/Recovery for Teens!

Posted by cordnoy - 27 Nov 2014 23:28

---

Agree wholeheartedly with DMS.

Oh, how I only wish I could've found this site as a teenager (there were no computers then; let alone internet).

Stop while you're young is so much more preferable, before one becomes fatally addicted to stuff.

Talk about it.

Speak it out!

Find a mentor.

Realize you're not alone.

It is so beneficial.

Skep is always spot-on in advice!

b'hatzlachah

=====

Re: Ideas for Teen Corner/Recovery for Teens!

Posted by dms1234 - 27 Nov 2014 23:34

---

Don't forget Zaidy, cordnoy. He's very smart too.

=====