iphone
Posted by guardyoureyesds - 12 Oct 2015 14:18

_____

hi guys,

I've hit a bit of a rut. I got a new iphone and the filtering isn't the same as on android; it's a lot easier to get unsecured internet. I don't know why, but I don't have the same determination to stay clean. I'm looking for some support if anyone is willing to give me some advice/words of encouragement. Thanks!

==
====

Re: iphone
Posted by Kedusha - 12 Oct 2015 14:57

_____

Hello,

Check out this post from 6 years ago:

guardyoureyes.com/forum/2-What-Works-for-Me/16098-Appreciating-the-Gift-of-Eyesight#16098

==
====

Re: iphone
Posted by guardyoureyesds - 12 Oct 2015 16:16

_____

My new background. Truly brilliant, my friend!

==
====

Re: iphone
Posted by eslaasos - 12 Oct 2015 20:02

_____

_____

Did you call TAG? They told me that iphones are easier to protect than Androids. PM me if you need technical assistance.

==
====

Re: iphone
Posted by markz - 12 Oct 2015 22:06

_____

They told me the same. Just beware of apps, many are not as safe for us SA's as we'd like. I don't want to give examples in public ??? ?????? ?? ????, but if you really wanna know and are willing to take the risk to ask which will require you to remove them PM me.

Regarding internet on iPhone, if you have a trusted partner on webchaver, you can block safari and use the covenanteyes app

==
====