

Mitzva Tzetel

Posted by doingtshuva - 25 Oct 2015 06:52

Hi friends,

With Hashems help I wanted to start something positive.

We all have temptations which we manage to win, so lets not forget these wonderful moments through sharing them with others. Its ours forever!

Whenever you manage to overcome a Nisoen take a moment to write and post for yourself a Mitzva Tzetel.

How much Naches will Hashem have when he will read these Tzetelich?

Waiting to hear only good news

=====
=====

Re: Mitzva Tzetel

Posted by doingtshuva - 25 Oct 2015 13:00

Yesterday night I wanted to go online for a not good reason, but I managed to hold himself back till the morning.

Thank you Hashem

=====
=====

Re: Mitzva Tzetel

Posted by eny - 25 Oct 2015 13:41

Had some filter issues, but overcame a yetzer hara to delay contacting the company to fix the problems.

=====
=====

Re: Mitzva Tzetel

Posted by doingtshuva - 25 Oct 2015 14:04

Amazing,

And if it will encourage others to do the same, it will be in your Zchus.

I also have to look into a stronger filter, something I'm pushing off a long time.

=====

Re: Mitzva Tzetel

Posted by Mesayin - 26 Oct 2015 19:38

doingtshuva wrote:

With Hashems help I wanted to start something positive.

We all have temptations which we manage to win, so lets not forget these wonderful moments through sharing them with others.Its ours forever!

Whenever you manage to overcome a Nisoen take a moment to write and post for yourself a Mitzva Tzetel.

What a great idea.

Well my mitzva maybe a bit odd but sometimes I get triggered by delving to much into the forums (I'm not saying the forums is a bad thing c"v it's a great thing).

Today I cut it off significantly B"H.

Chazak V'emutz

=====

Re: Mitzva Tzetel

Posted by doingtshuva - 26 Oct 2015 21:06

Mesayin

first thank you for your complement.

Yes we can waist a lot of time here and we have to learn to control it.

I heard it also from others that they spend to much time on gye.

Running away isn't the solution, but setting a time for gye and sticking to it can help you.

keep it up

=====

Re: Mitzva Tzetel

Posted by doingtshuva - 29 Oct 2015 19:28

Yesterday I called Tag to open me a closed site, after hanging up I found out that my K9 was still open (It never happened to me before) and if I wanted I was able reset and to change the setting.

Instead I took a deap breath and closed it by myself.

what a good feeling

Everybody is welcome to post their Mitzva Tzetalech here.

=====

=====