

Creation Day One: breaking free, Let us
Posted by Josephsbrother - 17 Dec 2015 23:27

The visible world is a constant communication between us and Abba. The heavens declare the handy work of Abba, so Day 1 of every week, let me begin with Let there be light. Every day starts with the sun setting the west, and rising in the east, and at noon day it is right above our heads, so STOP to offer prayer then, From the setting and the rising of the day we have two horizons, and we are every day in the center of them both, between two of them we are away center of Abba light for our day, honor One with prayer with thanks for his interest, for his aid, I love to do it, it is my weekly habit, I enter the center of His attention through Shema, and at noon I love to His centered attention of light, as the day moves west toward evening I love to think sharing the gather light of the previous sunset, mediation, and light of the morning with those that come in my journey, because I like being a hand of help, it is often receive more as a blessing than to speak what need to be done.

=====

=====

Re: Creation Day One: breaking free, Let us
Posted by Josephsbrother - 22 Dec 2015 10:44

For me receiving light makes the body heavier, and it spiritually help us to see where we are going. Abba is our light, Torah is our key, and experience righteous men can help guide us too. Most of. All Abba is my vinyl unfailing guide. With Elohim, the Counsellor of counsellors I am assured of light for awesome path, and that is my blessing.

=====

=====

Re: Creation Day One: breaking free, Let us
Posted by Josephsbrother - 22 Dec 2015 10:52

It is said among the scholar, that creation still is going on, I have love to go creation week to rebuild my creation, as also to rebuild earth recreation too. Every first day of the week I like focusing on how light s my personal blessing. I love natures light, and the beauties of nature make secret vice dim in my imaginations. Let there be light, daily.

=====

=====