

I keep relapsing...

Posted by Philwantstoquit - 15 Mar 2016 19:02

I went 90-120 days clean, then I fell once - then I went for a few weeks and fell again, then twice in couple weeks. I tried the Taphsic method and now I'm out money. I tried 90 day chart - internet filters are jokes. I don't know what to do. Any advice?

I feel bad...I know how terrible of an averah it is and I keep doing it.

I'm with you brother - and I made a laughing stock of filters, and didn't even wanna try taphsics, so how about you try the real thing like I did

Welcome Philwantstoquit!

Have you read through the GYE handbook, that can be a helpful tool.

Or maybe you need to keep in touch with a real person.

You may want to elaborate on your story more so that people can relate and try to give you advice.

But in your four points as to how you recovered, two of them at least are just that, although with a slightly different name?

Forum, restrictions, get a life, therapy.

Thanks where's the gabai? He's not allowed to drink!!!

And that's what I meant. Restrictions alone won't help everyone - and someone like Phil would do well, if he's interested, to try any of the other 3 things (combination is what works for me), and some other tools are avail too, and of course join the great daily call!!!

Filters can be "the real thing" for many

Welcome Phil, I can very much relate to the frustration of not being able to get and stay sober.

I tried hundreds of methods to stop but none of them worked. What have you tried already?

Did you analyze what was the triggers of your recent falls ?

There is always a trigger behind a fall : a picture, nervousity, deception... for examples
