

filters do not help

Posted by herewegoagainn3 - 20 Aug 2016 18:37

filters do not help at all because I used to have k9 even before I had been on this site. Since neither of my parents use the computer and stuff nor can they speak English, I am the only one who has access to the computer. So a filter is not going to work because I can always go back and disable the filter or change the password myself.

=====

Re: filters do not help

Posted by Shlomo24 - 21 Aug 2016 19:17

So K9 didn't work FOR YOU. That's all you know. I wouldn't be so quick to make assumptions. Also, keep your personal posts to one thread, it's annoying to have many different threads. And I was also wondering why you have many doubles of your posts. Once is enough.

Good luck.

=====

Re: filters do not help

Posted by doingtshuva - 21 Aug 2016 21:00

herewegoagainn3 wrote on 20 Aug 2016 18:37:

filters do not help at all because I used to have k9 even before I had been on this site. Since neither of my parents use the computer and stuff nor can they speak English, I am the only one who has access to the computer. So a filter is not going to work because I can always go back and disable the filter or change the password myself.

It looks more that YOU having the password is the problem, not the filter.

For this we have TAG \(Technology Awareness Group\) or a good friend who are ready to hold your password.

And yes it's not a secret that for some the filter isn't enough.

=====
=====