

Failed erev tisha b'av and last night..
Posted by Guardingeyez - 01 Aug 2017 11:18

---

to be honest, I'm feeling pretty bad and stupid and annoyed at myself. I'm thinking the next step is to completely remove internet from my phone because I'm just going around filters I've set up and managing to find something on the web that works for me. Is that the right step or will I end up figuring out another way somehow? I started reading 'Garden of Purity' as well and still haven't received the handbook in the mail. I feel like such a failure and not even close to a chossid. I want to be getting closer to marriage but with mistakes like this I feel that I am only pushing myself farther and farther away from shidduchim, from piety, and from HaShem. It's not good..

=====

Re: Failed erev tisha b'av and last night..
Posted by New Person - 01 Aug 2017 17:29

---

Guardingeyez!

In my humble opinion, bases on what I learned from my rebbi's, it is the right step. It will definitely make it easier for you. ????? ?????? ??????, ?????? ?? ?????.

(Not any advise given is THE solution to your problem. It's only one part of it.)

=====