I'm not an addict and therapy helped me tremendously bh! I was 3 months in therapy using the muscle testing/kinesiology emotional release method and my urges have decreased to 90%, however I still have urges often but nothing compared to what I used to have before therapy.

Who would go to a therapist who can't even spell therapy correctly?

My epology; perhaps you have a nack, and I gess this is a pretty inexpenncive markatting opson.

Good luck to you and to all your clyents.
