Farblunjet,

You mentioned in the past, issues you were struggling with, including anxiety and suicidal thoughts, of which a psychiatrist has helped you.

Are you keeping up with him?

I've seen a few therapists for a few years, but haven't been to one in the last two or so years. I've gotten what I could get from therapy, I understand my issues, I just need some people in my life. I am soooo lonely

You are not alone. That is why this website exists, to come together virtually as a group of good friends and help other people who are struggling.

keep strong and we'll get over these difficult times together. .
