

Holy Yid's Continuing Journey

Posted by Holy Yid - 18 Dec 2009 01:17

Hi I am alive. I am past 90 days, through the Hand of God, so I am starting a new tread for myself and my friends.

I still don't accept that I am an addict or even if I am an addict I do not accept myself as a full fledged one. Because of that I do not always take all the precautions other people on this site take. I want to diverge for a second and say that I respect all those who do take those precautions I just like to believe that I can get away with less. Anyways I felt that I should be ???? in ?????? ?????? so I spent a week acting as though I was a fully addicted addict with almost zero resistance.

I was very careful about what I saw outside, when I used the web and what non Jewish stuff I looked at and so on. I discovered a shocking thing. That after the week I was calmer and felt more in control of my life.

Maybe I'll pretend to be an addict long term.

I wish I had my own slogan

How about:

"If a Yid wants to be Holy, all he needs to do is remember he's a Holy Yid"

Sorry to hear about your recent falls!! :-\ :-\ :-\ :-\

If spending time on line is hurting us we need to curb it. Although we may gain by spending time here but if the loss outweighs the gain its not worth it!!

I sort of hit rock bottom. I was knocked out and felt raw inside. I realized that I am only vaguely aware of how much of the week has already pasted. After that I did not have strength to have urges. At the moment I am stable but I know I need to commit to the program and get back on track.

I am thinking about starting a new thread on the 90 day part and start over.

Amen.

Why would starting a new thread help? It's still a part of the journey of your life -a fresh start doesn't mean avoiding where you're coming from...

I Think I Should Go Back To The Wall Of Honor And Count 90 Day There. I Started The Thread Here After I Got To 90

Hi guys. I crashed. I am picking myself back up. I am trying to stay focused on living in meaningful ways. I started making slogans.

"Live today for tomorrow"

Do things today that I can look back at and be happy I did.

"The internet is not living"

Being online will not help us

I am also very humbled. I am focused on being very careful about what I look at and focusing on real living.

I reread my old posts and realize how much I have learned and grown in the last six months. I might be starting the 90 day thing over but there is so much more to life than 90 days. Even when I loose control I am so much better off than six months ago and best of all there is "hope you can believe in"
