

Starting Again...

Posted by Lou - 21 Dec 2020 22:15

Hi, I have posted in other threads but just wanted to start this new one to get this off my chest. I guess I am venting more than anything else. To make a long story short, I have been a struggler for years with these issues. This includes watching and also chatting with online relationships etc. BH over the past few years due to a variety of reasons things have ~~greatly~~ improved in this area. Don't get me wrong. It wasn't fixed but the issues were less serious (trying to avoid triggering {embarrassing} details. As it still was certainly an issue eventually I recently joined GYE and working on the 90 days etc. I have started and failed more than once but I understand that is part of the process. What is really getting to me and is actually confusing to me is that my most recent fall was to a level worse than I have had in a few years! In other words, when I was working on the issues less officially I was staying away from that level. Now that I am working on really cleaning up my act I have stooped back to my really low levels Why?? It definitely was some Hashgacha Pratis in this as I was faced with a nisayon I have avoided in the past. Is Hashem telling me that now that I am stronger I should be able to deal with nisayon?? Well, I didn't...

Any feedback is welcome!

BH, doing well.

I am very happy to be on this wonderful path. However, I keep having this niggling feeling in the back of my head. Maybe I am reading through too many other threads, but I keep waiting for the other shoe to drop. It appears everyone has a fall at around this point in the process. This is my 3rd start on here, so I am no stranger to falls but I am feeling very different this time. I feel like I really got this. But after reading a bit I doubt myself a little...

I don't remember who posted it but it was something on the line:

when an urge came it was more like "I've been expecting you" rather than a random attack that overwhelms you.

Keep wary but expect urges.

Creating a 'go to' plan when they arrive is helpful.

Be well and stay stedfast!

Maybe that's why you're still so strong, because you are waiting for the shoe to drop.

A lot of the falls come when a person becomes complacent in his recovery, and is assured with a false sense of security, that he is safe. This leads to negligence and overestimating one's abilities to taste a little bit of lust without succumbing totally.

But you on the other hand are being proactive. By understanding that this could happen at any time, you are constantly vigilant and on top of your game.

Keep it up! Beware the shoe! But don't let it drop!

Thank you Zedj,

Just to clarify I didn't mean that I am not encountering any urges or temptations at this time. i am BH still human. I just meant that with Hashem's chessed I don't seem to be having major issues dealing with them.

As always,thank you for your inspiration.

I have been thinking... Sorry if the following is a bit incoherent. It is just me sharing thoughts going through my mind.

I wanted to compare the issues I face with GYE related inyanim (porn,MB etc) with another issue I deal with. I am BH not obese or anything like that,however during a visit to the Doc about a year and a half ago I was told I have Type 2 Diabetes. Doc was of the opinion that I should take some low dose Meds,but not do other extreme interventions. The main thing he stressed to me was to lose weight and change my diet habits. I took this very seriously and went cold turkey on many items typically on my menu.It has been a struggle but BH at my last visit my numbers are down to below even a prediabetic level. Whats my point? I was faced with a behavior that had to change. It was detrimental to me. It was a behavior that focused on my own pleasure rather than thinking about others or Hashem..Yet it was so very enjoyable in the moment.It is readily available and many seemed to doing it. Sound familiar?? Exactly! I was thinking if I could pull this off with physical dangers for sure I can do it with the spiritual dangers. However, I do see a difference. For one, when I was doing well, my Doc told me it is fine to treat myself once in a while or if I am at a simcha etc I can choose what to give into as long as I keep a bit of a cheshbon. However,with this current issue there is no such thing as hey,well I'm doing well so you can enjoy some porn once in a while.Also,diets and health in general is something that can be shared and discussed with all. Many resources are available.Not with this.This is a big secret and also any "treat" is not allowed.

However, I think both of those facts are leading me to make bigger,deeper and more lasting changes than my food related changes. With the food as long as my numbers are ok and I am doing what I am supposed to do I am fine. With this issue,I am truly looking to change myself and not just the actual behavior(I happen to work in the field of ABA and have some other ideas about that for a different time).

As a side point, I do notice that as I am advancing BH with my battles on GYE I am giving in to many more food cheats but I am letting that slip a bit for now.

Thank you for listening.

Sorry for back to back postings...

I started out here not really posting much at all. Then I posted on my own threads.I have branched out and often will post in other peoples threads. The past couple of days I have been feeling maybe it's not right to post chizuk and opinions of mine in other peoples threads. This is not Lakewood scoop where my opinions are just about the current realestate prices or other naarishkeit. This is life and death inyanim. I do have some life experience under my belt but I am far from Daas Torah or an expert in the field. Maybe I will say something and a week later realize I was mistaken. Yet,someone is out there following my misguided advice. On my own thread I feel like it is more clear that I am just talking to myself so feel free to listen at your own risk,but in other peoples threads maybe it is better to wait until I know more. Or maybe not,we are in this together and all help is offered in that spirit?

Opinions?

Your posts are great! Post your feelings and post away, everyone is wrong once in a while, that's no reason not to post at all.

Keep it up!

Just an update that BH things are going well. Hurdles come up here and there but BH handling everything ok. For example, my daughter asked me to unblock a professional frum ladies video for her to watch. For a fleeting moment I was thinking this a great plan and totally innocent! But BH, I came to my senses quickly and told her I will unblock it for 1 hour (great feature by the way). This way she could enjoy and I just stayed away from the computer for an hour. Aside from the fact that it is assur to watch frum ladies sing and dance, (although possibly it would have been clean enough not to cause real trouble) it probably would have whet my appetite for the real bad stuff and etc etc.

So, situations like this are coming up but BH nothing major and I am feeling very strong. Thank you Hashem! It is all Chessed Hashem!

What I am posting here is totally my personal experience and possibly will not resonate well with others. I realize that everyone has their own unique circumstances and that includes their relationship with GYE.

GYE is starting to remind me of a Shmiras sedorim program I was in years ago. I was in a Kollel and shmiras Sedorim was getting shvach. They made a special program that you can earn a few more dollars if you are on time for x amount of days. The program worked well and got things back on track. However, when you think about it why did work? These were people with families that needed real money. Was $ 20 more a month (approximately, I don't remember the real numbers) really going to make such a difference that it was worth all the effort to be on time? The answer is no. They really wanted to be on time anyway. If so, why did they need the $20, just be on time? Because that is human nature. You can know what's right and want to do it but you just need that extra external push to get you there. I feel similarly here. At this age and stage, I generally know what is right and what is wrong. I also desperately would like to be clean with all the benefits associated with it. But it wasn't happening. On the other hand the chizuk of the forum and accountability of the charts alone really are not motivating enough for me to change. They are easily ignored and you can move on with life.(I actually did something like that years ago when someone tried to get me to come on here,but that is a story for a different time). However, if you really want to do whats right and you just need that "kick in the pants",it works amazingly together!

Thank you Hashem! and thank you to all my friends here on GYE
