

Grant's Rants

Posted by Grant400 - 30 Apr 2023 22:12

Seem to be out of the woods now.

On the way back in.

How long will it take to get there?

That's 100% up to me.

Quite often, I want to act out, not to experience the pleasure, but to rid myself of the excruciating pain.

Which pain if I may ask?

The pain of not indulging in the pleasure.

Acceptance carries an underlying desire for a change in your situation. Happiness does not

You can't stop a bird from flying over your head, but you can stop it from making a nest there.

The intensity of my desires hasn't lessened (yet), but the chance of me giving in has.

They say a story about Rav Boruch Mordechai Ezrachi Shlita that a bird flew over his head and dropped "something"...and he said "Nu, by Yonasan ben Uziel any bird that flew overhead would burst into flame. By me at least es gechapped a tzitter (it's seized by a trembling)"

It's not my job to take. It's not my job to give - in order to take.

It's my job just to give, but then I will receive.

There are two kinds of posts:

1. Help me feel better.

2. Help me do better.

Both are legitimate and necessary, but if you use the first method as a means to convince yourself you are accomplishing the second one, you are deluding yourself and wasting time.
