Techloq on Android phone issues!! PLEASE HELP!
Posted by clarity26 - 07 Feb 2025 18:26

I currently have Techloq but there are issues,What I like about techloq is that I can access whatever I need on the browser like ebay and Amazon and all the pictures of people are blocked.(which they are not in the app)However the issue with Techloq is that apps that are not good for me I tried to block and Blacklist. The issue is I can request to unlock it at anytime and they listen.... so what's the point of blocking (it's been too annoying to give someone else the pin, if that's my only option I guess I'll reconsider it)Also I want to be able to not uninstall the covenant eyes app.Which I can't seem to be able to figure outPlease assist !!Tizku lmitzvosI appreciate it!

You should get on the phone with them, they have great customer service, even those who speak Yiddish.

You can set something that some categories and stuff, you can request, and some categories either you can't request, or you can but it needs to get allowed by your filter admin.

If set up properly, it is the great.

To put what 5768 and FrankLee said together. You can add someone to notified every time you unblock something. This is free, but they just get a notification. You can also add a paid (cheap) feature to add an admin who needs to approve things before they're unblocked. This may be more convenient than giving someone else your pin.

Hatzlacha!

I'm having the same issue on techloq on my android there is a certain app that has a lot of inappropriate things and I can't blacklist it, I can block it but then I have a option of requesting to open it again and then they open it for me I don't know what to do I spoke to them already a few times and they said they can't blacklist it personally for me cause it's in 1 of the categories that's allowed for every1 it's really crazy it's going on for a few months already

Anyways I wanted to know if any1 knows or has experience with a app blocker from the play store I see there's some options out there and so they even really work?
