

WHERE R U?

I have a thought, and I don't know where to post it. So I'm starting a new thread.

You know those people who come along and post, and then disappear. Or maybe you remember someone's story, but lost track of it and forgot who it was. Maybe you have seen them?

So, here's a thread for follow-up.

Perhaps I have an explanation:

"The candle that burns twice as brightly, burns only half as long." (Bladerunner). :-[ :-[ :-[ Great quote, though.

Maybe people OVERDO it when they 1st join the GUE community. Then they fizzle out. And disappear.

So, maybe we can find them again.

Or, at least let them know we're thinking of them.

You know something, I don't believe that.

Unless you have a white list filter like guard, the best filter iin the world will not filter out 100% of p**n.

So if 3 sites get through a year, especially if you have a good filter, you'll be tempted to check if the filter will work or not,

and one day maybe not today

maybe not tomorrow,

but one day you'll click.

Pessimistic? maybe.

Realistic? I think so.

Just hope that when that one day comes, you'll have the courage to x out before you really fall.
