Was thinking the same...

But this whole thing made me laugh,...
Thanks ! I was joking around too with my last post.

Thank you everyone....

But Seriously... I am just kidding...

:D :D :D

What's even more hilarious to me is that this thread, obviously created by a keystroke "coincidence" (i.e., hash. prat.), is now MORE popular than the actual "real life" thread.

Which had to do with how to interact with "young" people on this Forum. What I've seen in the posts to teens seems like a movie title: The Good, the Bad, and the Ugly.

Maybe someone will go over THERE by some keystroke "coincidence" and share....

It is already Shabbos in Eretz yisroel, so Dov In Israel cannot respond:

"When we shed LIGHT on the SITUATION we see how FUNNY it is"

Just Joking...just joking about just joking!

Tha Satmar Rebbe Ztz"l is said to have said:Chazal tell us that nothing stands in the way of a person's WILL, Ein lach davar ha'omed bifnei harotzon. If so, why are we not perfect?

We don't have the WILL yet. We WANT to have a WILL. We WANT to WANT.

With these words he explained the wording in the zemer Yedid Nefesh: Nichsof nichsafti. I Lusted to LUST - the good kind of Lust. Lusting for closeness to Hashem!!!!

project at work which will probably allow me no time at all for GYE

Too harsh for me....

Wanting to want is also wanting... it's also valuable... maybe not as valuable, but valuable never the less....

We are small people... (or at least I am...)

Tried123, you are in GOOD company! Those words, Nichsof nichsafti were written by Ba'al Hachareidim many many years ago! (I think about 400 - 500 years ago!)

The Satmar Rav was explaining that we are all on your level! We all try to try!
