

Society is one big sex addcict!

Posted by Ineedhelp!! - 13 May 2010 15:04

I just saw this news report on a website that promotes cheating on spouses. Its specifically geared towards finding MARRIED people and setting them up so they can have an affair. The CEO gave an interview and he's the biggest scumbag i've ever seen. He was rationalizing making money off of this. Society is one big sex addict and if we want to get into recovery we're going to have swim upstream, against the current. We have to go against the norm! Take any TV show for example (b'h I gave up TV and if you havent yet, you should really consider it). They are all about one guy cheating on someone and they new couple lives happily ever after. Does that happen? Ya, people cheat, but they never live happily ever after! Society has the wron impression from TV and look what it does to them! Divorce rates are on the rise (by the way the CEO of that company claimed he's no worse than a dicorce lawyer making money off divorces).

Just had to vent there about how much I hate the western culture. I am sure this is not just the US....

-Yiddle

=====
=====

Re: Society is one big sex addcict!

Posted by DovInIsrael - 13 May 2010 20:22

hi -

good for you - the alarm is going off - its time to wake up, people!

Did you know in America - it does not make sense to be married...

think about it - if two people are married - then theoretically one does not have to work - they can stay home and raise the children...afteral its the same rent money.

but if couple break up - then there are two people working, much better for the economy!

I remember when married to my ex - we went looking into mortgages...not that we bought a house, but if we did we would have gotten a better deal if we were both single than if we were married.

hope you get out - before they bring the country down, and turn everyone into working class slaves..digging the tunnels to the gates of gehinnon!

dont look back - just RUN!!!

while you still can!

(besides we'll need some help here to set up a 12-step program for the guys here who want it)

is-DOV-real

(dov in isreal ...and this is as REAL as it gets over here!)

=====
=====

Re: Society is one big sex addcict!
Posted by teshuvahilaah - 13 May 2010 21:06

I gave up TV a long time ago. It is mind numbing, always chasing after a fad while trampling a principle. It disgusted me and jarred me to the point that I just calmly said goodbye. It always amazes me how people can put with it... but people pull different things from it, therefore, I do understand.

But it's still darn crazy, sometimes.

=====
=====

Re: Society is one big sex addcict!
Posted by trying123 - 16 May 2010 18:16

The western culture is indeed one big sex-market....

The lesson I take is that we little guys here that are trying to try our best and avoid what the secular world promotes... Are so so special... Me, you and everyone here that are simply trying are warriors...

Inspiring indeed...

=====
=====