

What to do if I have a serious question...

Posted by Levi613 - 30 Jun 2010 18:24

---

BS"D

I don't know the website yet well enough. I have a question on a psychological issue connected to addiction. I would like to know if there is any place where I can ask this to a Rabbi who has experience in this area. Can anybody provide me information?

Thanks

=====

Re: What to do if I have a serious question...

Posted by Holy Yid - 30 Jun 2010 20:35

---

you can email Reb Guard and he can pass it along to Rabbi Dr Twerski but there is not guarantee Rabbi Dr Twerski will respond.

You could also think about posting it. I find that many of the serious questions I have can be answered with the common knowledge of the group many people here have seen counselors. BUT I do not know your situation and what you feel is best is really your personal decision. Best of luck

=====

Re: What to do if I have a serious question...

Posted by the.guard - 30 Jun 2010 21:00

---

To ask a Rav a sheilah anonymously, see this page: www.guardyoureyes.org/?p=1997

To contact Rabbi Twerski, try here: www.abrahamtwerski.com/index.php/about-us/contact-rabbi-dr-twerski

=====