

A Community for Recovery

Posted by trying123 - 22 Aug 2010 19:01

I am from the Tri-State area, but I need a change of pace. I want to move out of town, I need a community that has other people in recovery...

Do you know of a friendly community that would be good for someone in recovery?

I am thinking of Phoenix Arizona....

You can post, send a personal message, or an email...

A response would be greatly appreciated....

Tried, you write that you are from the Tri-State area.

There is no better place to be than in the State of Try.

A Yid gotta know that we need not accomplish, but we must constantly try!

Lo alecha hamelacha ligmor, v'ii atta resha'i l'hibadel mimena!

I personally like the south pole. Those penguins are just too cute!

And they stay loyal to their mates....

Every year, after they all find their mates, the almonos and almons gather together and find a zivug shaynee.

Gotta watch out for those seals, y'know. Really sharp teeth, and no conscience at all.
