

IS THE FORUM DYING? / ARE WE AWAKE?

Posted by Holy Yid - 21 Oct 2010 19:41

It seems that in general people are posting much less then they used to.

Do you think this is true?

If yes is it a good thing or bad thing?

For those who can benefit from a more active forum how can we change that?

=====

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by silentbattle - 21 Oct 2010 20:22

I can only speak for myself, but right now, my schedule has kinda changed (what with getting married and all), and I find myself with little extra time. I should probably make time, you're right.

What can you do? Post. write on your own thread, reply to others, give chizuk, show appreciation, ask for explanation...etc.

=====

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by kutan - 21 Oct 2010 20:25

We can all email guard at once (say 6 pm Israel time) and flood his email box and ask him to please come back.

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by 7yipol - 21 Oct 2010 21:25

Everyone should take the message personally and do their utmost to post, post, post.

Its time for you guys to revive the joke thread (depressed persons chill spot), maybe someone can take over the tehiliim thread and share some insight daily? To think that the 'hugs' thread hasnt been opened in months is a shanda! How about the sadly unused Beis Medrash which is covered with cobwebs? So many talmidei chachamim and even balei batim who could share a vort with us...

Of course share on each others threads as well as your own - youd be surprised at the power of a 'simple' " Hi Sturggle / Silent Battle / Kutan / Holy Yid etc, I was thinking about you and popped in just to say hi".

Take the initiative. We all would love to have Guard back, but lets be realistic - its not happening so soon. I have a feeling Guard would love to be back in the trenches with us too, but responsibility lies elsewhere for now. So its up to each and every foot soldier to take over the leadership reigns till the general returns.

C'mon guys, wake up and get this place rocking!

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by yedidya aleph - 21 Oct 2010 22:32

youd be surprised at the power of a 'simple' " Hi Sturggle / Silent Battle / Kutan / Holy Yid etc, I was thinking about you and popped in just to say hi".

I agree that we would benefit from the pesonal contact. it would help break the isolation.

=====

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by Shteeble - 21 Oct 2010 22:46

we can ALL post a quick daily hello in the break free > Just Wanted To Say Hi! thread.

(it's a new thread)

W

=====

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by DesertLion - 21 Oct 2010 23:38

Hi Holy Yid,

Well I actually think it's a good thing bc it looks as if Guard has done his job so well that most people have left the 'rehab centre', and don't need a second helping, lol.

I wish I was one of those guys as well. Maybe one day.....

Anyway, I hope all is well.

BW,

DL

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by Shteeble - 22 Oct 2010 00:44

i don't know.

there are still exactly 232 people online at the same time each day.

it says so bifeirush.

but yeah... somehow it does seem a lot quieter around here.

also R' bardichev is on some sort of a mission i think.

it gets kind of quiet without the woodford flavored ice cream cones.

maybe everyone should beg bardichev to come back already.

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by frumfiend - 22 Oct 2010 01:41

I agree with dessert lion. It seems there is a graduating class every six months.

The guys left back start to feel alone

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by Shteeble - 22 Oct 2010 01:43

a graduating class.... or a dropout class??

i didn't think graduating was possible until 120.

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by frumfiend - 22 Oct 2010 02:47

NICE!

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by Dov - 22 Oct 2010 03:29

Dying, schmying.

Who is running this forum, anyway? Us, or Hashem? He'll take care of the forum if it is destined to survive at all, and I think that any artificial thing we try to shtoop and force will just make us crazier than we already are.

And for me, that is hard to imagine. (I'd need extra Prozac, probably.)

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by ZemirosShabbos - 22 Oct 2010 03:33

Dov, you made me realize something. you can be alive and fake your death, but you cannot be dead and fake your life.

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by kutan - 22 Oct 2010 12:05

Dov, I'd love to have your glasses!

=====

Re: IS THE FORUM DYING?

Posted by kutan - 22 Oct 2010 12:05

World, you make me laugh!

=====