When it comes to sleeping positions, though, like you said - everyone's different. Me, I could never sleep on my stomach. Doesn't even occur to me, it's just not that comfortable.

You're right about that...

Not everyone is comfortable in the same positions.

But the position I suggested is just a suggestion and based on Halacha.

Some great ideas.

From now on, I'm not going to think about Green Elephants...

Dunno the story, but definitely sound scary. ???

:o

I think I should concentrate a lot on not thinking about green elephants! Not even for a second! :-\

Bendy!

You read HARRY'S SON?

Wow

I'm honored

hi

one think you have to keep in mind

your problem about going into bed and that fact alone almost automatically triggers you, is going to be much much much easier as every single day (that you didnt give in) passes by, now it basically goes automatic, going into bad-the whole struggle begins, the only thing you need to work on now, is switching it from automatic to manual, so that going into bed shouldnt mean starting a battle, the way to do it is to hold back just a few days, think of that it will be much easier (even for the first few days)

so its basicaly a struggle for couple of days

(dont get confused, i'm not talking about staying sober in general, thats a long and much harder fight, i'm just talking about the "bed trigger" problem)

in one word

its a struggle about a couple of days (just knowing that, makes it much easier to overcome)
