

Tatte Zisser or Abba Matok: how do YOU address G-d?

Posted by obormottel - 09 Sep 2011 21:26

All throughout this forum people recommend and often share a personalized tfila to HKB"H.

In addition to our standard Eloikeinu v'Eloikei Avoiseinu, Boruch Ato Hashem, Yehi Rotzoin milfonecho etc, how do you address Hashem when you talk to Him outside of Shmoine Esrei, or Birchas Hashachar etc?

Is it Ovinu Shebashomaim? Tatte Zisser? Der Heiliger Bashefer? G-t fun Avrohom, Yitzchok, un Yankev? The Al-mighty? Hashem? Keili, Keili? L-rd, G-d? HaKadosh Baruch Hu?

I found that the Anshei Knesses Hagdoilo didn't overstep their duties when they created for us a standard text for davening, because I am often at a loss for words and feeling a little awkward when having to address the Creator on my own. The opportunities are ample: Dear Father, don't let me melt down when this person poses in front of me. Dear G-d, save me from this nisoyon. Bless her, Merciful Father, with her heart's desires. Hashem, I really need you now. Adoin Oylom, I give up!

My personal favorite to address our Holy Creator is Riboinoi Shel Oylom. I heard it from my grandmother and it has a special closeness to me. When I say "Riboinoi shel Oylom, what are you doing to me?" I really feel that I am addressing Him respectfully enough yet loud enough to get noticed.

What's your favorite name for G-d?

tatteh is himmel

tatteh zeesser

de tatteh

der aybeshter

i know in the old litta

they say "bey-rey eyylam"

it has a cheyn to hear it from a old litvisher yeed

today it was replaced with a precursary HASHEM

like the kids sinh haseh is here hashem is there but hearing "bey-rey eyylam"

from a michama ibberlebber

or the Basheffer

it has yiddeshe cheyn
