

Discussion about the second cycle

Posted by Tomim2B - 18 Oct 2009 09:23

Would anyone be bothered if the calls were recorded and archived here on GYE? Another question: Anyone up for this task?

An iPhone might have software to enable recording outgoing calls. If anyone is capable of this and just needs help finding the right tools, please get in touch with me, and I'll be glad to give a hand.

I don't disagree to your point considering that these girls have been on the forum for months and an emotional connection could easily be/have been sparked between us. I don't think we'd care much about hearing the voice of any random girl and that wouldn't trigger us as much. I, as a person who hasn't hit rock bottom, can only speak for myself though: The fact that there are women (speaking) on the line doesn't bother me in any way. The reason for my apprehension in not adding to the conversation has nothing to do with them. Mainly I don't want to chew up valuable time which has been designated towards covering the material within 13 weeks. In the meantime, if what I have to say isn't really important, I'll speak only when spoken to.

it's not just hearing the voice... It's the "issues" that are brought up... It's more triggering to hear a girl talk about her struggles in this area, than it is to read about it...

You're right. I can't read about their "issues", even more so to hear about them. That would be way triggering! But than again, who's discussing "issues"? Aside from the fact that they have been very good about not discussing the details of their struggle on the forum in respect for us, the group is devoted to correcting our character, our view on lust, and our perspective on life. It's that which we discuss. I mean, one thing is to hear their stories - past and present. But that's not what we're talking about now. This is about them joining in the general discussion.

it's totally fine if i don't talk. i can email duvid chaim any questions and can share with the sisters.

Guard, should i not announce myself at all. i'm not going to be on every day necessarily so noone will assume i'm on at any given call. so everyone can get rid of all reservations i might cause. i totally want what's best for the klal and am more than willing to help out by being quiet.

just so you know, i asked duvid chaim about this before i spoke up and he had a different opinion than you. Did you discuss it with him?

I spoke to Duvid Chaim about this very briefly while chatting with him on the phone tonight. He is of the opinion that women should not speak up in discussion. He explained that this is in accordance to the guidance of R' Twersky as are the rules of the forum. He also asked that members of the group read his email titled "1) a "Share" and 2) GYE Guidelines for Forums, Chats and Calls; for both Men and Women". He indicated, that if any women would like to share, discuss, or ask questions, they are welcomed to call him personally after the meetings (or any time throughout the day).

can someone post summaries again?

for various reasons, i can only be on sometimes, and when i am on, i can't write.

so i don't have notes.

if anyone could just write down a quick overview of what Dovid Chaim said, i'd really appreciate it.

no problemo!
thanks
