

"Ok chevera, time to get back into the reading!"

Posted by Tomim2B - 08 Dec 2009 00:17

---

Ok guys, time for a poll! ;D

The time that you set aside during your lunch-hour for Duvid Chaims Phone Conference is important. We've all got things to do, and we want to make the most out of that time.

So here's the question: Do you want Tomim to stop hijacking the calls?

2B

P.S: Please vote only if you are a participant in these calls.

=====
=====

Re: "Ok chevera, time to get back into the reading!"

Posted by Steve - 08 Dec 2009 19:12

---

I don't think you've been hijacking the calls.

Vote above! I won't see who voted what so you aint got what to worry about that!
For a while I was afraid that I was.

I say let's leave it up to our Captain to decide at any time if someone's going overboard (hee hee! - punn intented...) and we're behind in agenda. But this is not about just the reading, it's about internalizing the reading and doing the steps. And that requires sharing. And Sharing is on the lunch menu.

So everyone should feel free and encouraged to contribute their perspectives, not just their questions. I'm really learning alot from "y'all" and find comfort knowing that others feel the same way I do and have the same struggles.

It shows me I'm still human.

Now remove the stupid poll and let's get back to work.

Steve

=====
=====

Re: "Ok chevera, time to get back into the reading!"

Posted by letakain - 08 Dec 2009 19:16

---

it's so not hijaking. that's like saying that a math teacher will lecture without answering questions cuz h/she need to "finish the curriculum". Well if i don't understand something:

a. i'm probably not the only one

b. i can't do step 6 without step 5 so i need to understand it to move on!

you're doing perfectly, Tomim.

i appreciate everything you contribute to the calls!

=====
=====