there once was a rich man who had everything who saw a poor man who had nothing. the rich man took the poor man in, fed him clothed him and gave him a job and a place to live. the poor man wanted to show his appreciation but what could he give the rich man? everything the poor man had CAME from the rich man. the poor man thought and realized that the rich man loves giving. if the poor man shared what he had that would be the greatest gift he could give the rich man.

Hashem you gave and give me everything. I davven for the appreciation that everything comes from you and for the opportunity to share with others the blessings you shower upon me

Thank you, Hashem, for the requisite understanding to not go into a tailspin over last night's mikra laylah. That was really nifty how You helped me not get bogged down by that.

Thank you, Hashem, for shabbos licht!!!

Thank you, Hashem, for heat in the winter.

Thank you, Hashem, for K-9.

Thank you, Hashem, for Tehilim.

Thank you, Hashem, for friends.

Thank you, Hashem, for really sour candies.

Thank you, Hashem, for everything. Really.

Thank you, Hashem, for not giving up on me.

Please, Hashem, allow me not to forget.

thank You Hashem for giving me a truly Beautiful life. For giving me the bracha of seeing positive, for giving me the opportunity to thank you and feel your closeness, thank you hashem for a wonderful relationship with my wife, with my family, for the ability to be honest, for my car, for my parking spot, for reality, for life one day at a time, for recovery, for GYE. GYE saved my life I would be dead suicided somewhere if not for GYE. i don't want to end this post thank you Hashem for humility, for feelings, for love, for empathy, for pain, for giving for guidance.

I love you Hashem
