

"Shmiras Ainayim" Chizuk E-Mail

Posted by Shivisi_Hashem - 02 May 2017 14:18

Why not open a thread discussing the content of the emails?

today's story about the chusid not being let in the house of the other chusid in a frosty night telling him that in his house he is the boss, is a great story and support how to deal with our struggle.

even its very very hot outside (inside):triumph:dont let him in, he might bang on the door, just ask your self who is boss...

1) ?????? ??????

2) it's being heard, but not always you see it right away,

let me tell you a story I was personally involve.

a guy a financial controller was looking to change his job, so I tried to push him in to a company, the potentials looked phenomenal, a 30K increase salary, so he met with the potential employer twice, everything looked rosy, but somehow, another guy pushed himself in to that company and the first guy, whom I tried to help lost the opportunity.

the first guy was devastated, he told already his friends and family about his new job, but there was nothing I can help him.

After 3 months, the company where he was supposed to get this job has been raided by the feds, and this new controller got arrested, was part of an investigation company closed down, thousands of lawyer fees, the whole nine yards.

So basically, when the first guy lost the opportunity he didn't know at all how good it was for him that he lost that opportunity, so that's the point, you continue to pray, and the Yeshuah will come, but you won't see it always.

And that's what we ask Hashem ?????? ?' ?????

I once thought that I love being alone

I once hated the social scene

I once hated having to step up to the plate

Then life happened

Now I like being alone sometimes

Now I can enjoy the social scene

Now I can enjoy stepping up to the plate

Now I love reaching out to friends and family

Now I understand I was stupid selfish

Now I can enjoy(live) life
