

I thought I can do this alone.

Posted by realsimcha - 11 Mar 2011 20:07

This is really hard for me. I feel nervous and uncomfortable as I am posting this . I have been struggling for over twelve years. Twelve nightmarish long years. Some have been better and some have been worse. All have been painful. I have never reached out like this before. Its really hard for me, as I always convinced myself that I can do this alone. I was wrong. I hope that I can get what it seems like others on this website have. Strength. Simcha. Clarity. I don't have any more strength for this addiction, and I want to face the world around me with simcha and without feeling embarassed. Can you help?

Thanks for the re-welcome... Doing well. Good to be back... and bad ... I guess I still wish that this wasn't my life , that I could have had this life without this test. Yeah, I know, I'm just saying.

Each episode of acting out has so many negative ramifications that its nuts. From that look in my wife's eyes that she doesn't understand but I do ... from responsibilities ignored ... from exhaustion that could have been avoided and one thing leads to the next ... bad mood ... arguments ... blow-ups ... no strength to deal with it ... then being led right back to where I started ...

BH today is good. And today is just about all I can focus on right now.

Almost lost it today in a swift moment of insanity. Glad to be here ... Made a difference knowing you are out there. ... Lets keep this going Always hits when I feel like I let someone down or didnt do what I should have. If I waste alot of time i find myself capping it off with some shmutz because I cant face the wasted time.... of course that leads to more wasted time... and the nightmare begins... caught it this time....

Yeah I know its early. I woke up early and found something nagging me when I sat down to my computer. I almost started "checking" what was "available" on the computer. I googled one thing ... then caught myself. Here I am. Speaking it out. Catching it in time. Getting hold of my sanity. Thanks to Hashem and to you.
