

Shalom brothers

Shalom to all young soldiers out there. It's a wounded and hurt one here. I'm 22 and have been fighting in this war for maybe 10 years. Only in the last few years I have been successful and victorious B"H. But not in the last 6-7 months. I was clean for over a year without any form of sual tumah. And then I met the isha zarah nakriah. I didn't recognize that then (around January 2012) so we became close. Then we started hanging out as i was telling myself "just keep your mouth shut, hands down, thoughts clean". I was feeling very strong in Hashem and thought to myself nothing can bring me down. So i kept in the same direction. She was chasing me everyday so i started to loosen up more and more. Then in the university i failed one exam for which i was 100% sure i passed. I was angry with Hashem and this failed exam made it look like Hashem let me down for no reason because i did my job to study hard. Not long after that i spent a night with the same isha zara nakriah. The worst didn't happen but was close to happen. Hashem kept me. I said no B"H. But the process had started. I told her we should drift apart. And we did. All she did was drift me away from my only Love, Hashem. And then the yetzer hara became stonger than ever. I couldn't resist it. I fell. Again and again. My strength was gone.

And now 7 months later in choshech i'm struggling to hold on to Hashem but it's harder than ever. It's like my brain shuts down, i go to the computer and forget about everything. After i act out i have no words. Sometimes i can't even cry. I need to go back.

I need You, Borei Olam... Don't let me go. Meoz Chayai Ata... Al tashlicheni... ba choshech... Hashiveni Adonai Eleicha... ve ashuva... ki Ata Adonai Avi.

Support me in my trip back to Hashem, brethren. And may the blessing of Shamaim be upon you. Shalom.
