into the mist Posted by breath - 10 Apr 2013 03:55
hi everyone.
im a 24 years old guy.
nothing special.
no particuliar friends.
no popular.
no rich.no poor.
no strong.
a shadow.
no hobby or passion.i mean i used to read books or plays video games movie and other but i stop everything one affer the others.i prefer to stay with my pc watching and doing you know what.
i read some stories about struggle, fighting, anger and other feelings but for me its different.i feel Nothing. no black nor light its grey.i live in the fog.living each days on the same routine.sure i pray 3 times per day but im ashame of myself to speak with Hachem.i put tephilin .eat kocher and others but there is no feelings.

1 / 14

GYE - Guard Your Eyes

Generated:	21	August.	2025.	00:18

what am i doing here ? i dont knowi stop fighting .i left the anger behind me.
im just sad .this is where i live.
no hope.i forget this taste.
people speak about stopping for days.i just want to have 12 hours of freedom.
im tired.i will continue later.
i wont do anything till morning.
====
Re: into the mist Posted by Chachaman - 27 May 2013 10:08
I don't know since I'm only a bochurbut right now it seems to me that that would almost be like a fall, only that it's suddenly become kosher. I would think that one should have a pretty decent streak first.
than again, if we're addicts for life, time wont change our approach to marriage, so might as wel do it now since sooner is better than later.
translation: I don't know
====

Re: into the mist Posted by breath - 27 May 2013 11:14
copy that !
so far my longest streak ended in February 2013 after 11 weeks. (following that 2 weeks and after that a very long and deep fall which bring me in gye)
=======================================
Re: into the mist Posted by gibbor120 - 27 May 2013 20:22
I know that Rabbi Twerski has said that one should have a period of sobriety before he starts dating and also that he should tell his date (at the right time) about his addiction.
see here
www.guardureyes.com/gue/rtwerski/startDating.asp
and here
guardyoureyes.com/articles/questions-and-answers/item/do-i-have-to-tell-my-date
and here
www.guardureyes.com/gue/rtwerski/Dating.asp
====
Re: into the mist Posted by breath - 29 May 2013 03:37

GYE - Guard Your Eyes

Stupid lie, right?

Generated: 21 August, 2025, 00:18

you know.this how you realize how much this sin is vicious because I always thought it was a personal matter, between you and Hachem (I mean, I never went with a real girl) it is just you when no one can see but now it interfere with REAL life.

by the way, I face the same problem of last week, I forget why I don't act out ! I mean, I still don't act out right now ! not even a slip ! but I feel...good ! and yeah I feel like if I fall I will be better because it's enjoyable !

still, here my problem, after a week I dont see the point to struggle!

I have a vague remembrance of the pain but it seems so far!

damn it !my yetser hara is very clever !!

I want my memory back !!

====

Re: into the mist

Posted by Chachaman - 29 May 2013 05:17

after reading some of what Dr sorotzkin had to say (look at gibbor120 for the link), I think that it can be helpful to list the benefits of being sober, instead of focusing on the negatives associated with falling--the Y"h is amazing at clouding the negatives.

Generated: 21 August, 2025, 00:18

also, maybe creating a list od things you are thankful for could help. there are plenty of techniques like that which might be able to get us into positive moods.

if necessary, take extreme measures. take a walk outside, clear your head. tell the y"h only for today you will be clean; tomorrow is a new fight.

as always, if we define our lives by this struggle, we are destined to fail.

====

Re: into the mist Posted by gibbor120 - 29 May 2013 22:08

Hi breath,

That's why people don't usually try the 12 steps until they've hit "rock bottom". It usually takes that long for someone to admit that this is ruining their life and make them willing to take the necessary "steps" to start living sober.

I've heard of a concept here of euphoric recall as well. We remember the positive feelings and pleasures, but not the pain. If we clearly remembered the pain, the Y"H wouldn't stand a chance.

Have you ever done a first step inventory? You write out your entire acting out history for yourself. Then you read (or paraphrase) it to someone else. It makes the whole thing really hit home. It is a very liberating feeling, and helps us to let go of the acting out that we are clinging to for dear life.

====

Re: into the mist

Posted by breath - 30 May 2013 04:35

Generated: 21 August, 2025, 00:18

My brother crush my hand so hard,he cut my nerve and I lost partially the mobility of my finger (the surgeon tied my nerve so I can partially move it together)

So yeah,I knew what is the violence,but the thing is I didn't fight for me . I can endure that,it is not a problem but I can't bear when my older beat my little brother!

Each time they said "I will kill you" and start to hit,I went between them and said to the stronger "I'll kill you first"

I think my parents fears them, they are dangerous, this is why I intervene myself no matter how I fear them, I jumped on the fight because I can endure the fight and the pain and I don't think my parents can.

I prefer take the hits before someone else.

Yeah I pray for they suffers ,I enjoyed when they fight each others.

Do you know how many times I cried during this time? NONE!

Till one day in November 2008,I was so low and deep and miserable ,I beg my mother to help me

Do you know what she said? "hit you head on the wall,I don't care"

achiotated. 21 7 tagast, 2020, 00.10
This exactly what I did.
And I cried and screamed all afternoon.
I lived in and for violence.
Do you think I was alone ? no ! I have my secret island of peace, when I locked myself in toilet and do what you know ,in this world ,the girls were pretty and love me.(no porn ,I discover this years later and I never really enjoyed it even now)
But it have a cost.
Shame.Guilt.you know them.
Years passed like this.
You can see I don't prayed, I didn't know how it works! understand me,I was in violence since so many years! where I could learn that!!
But I have an another friend. Tehilim , Psalms.
====
Re: into the mist Posted by breath - 31 May 2013 20:39

I didn't respond.

At the age of 13 ,a ray told me the power of psalms, it's funny because I forget the power but I clearly remember asked him "wow ,it's awesome! and I just have to read? even if I don't understand?" "he told me "Yes!"

So I start read it ,(since then I usually read the whole sefer in one week) After my hand crush, I start to think, I can't live like this anymore! This is where is start to think about Hachem, I increased my tehilim, jump in when i was sad or angry. A little time after ,An Admour went to my city (it's a very small town) in a neighbor's house and some guy told me we can ask him questions. So for the first time of my life, I surrender and let someone think for me. I told him my story and ask him If I shall continue to fight for my brother and he told me "NO!" "What ???" He told me some reasons i don't really understand (something about names i think) So I follow his advice and stay away of the fight,. It's very VERY hard to not intervene when you witnesses what I saw but when i listen a fight I close my ears and rode Tehilim (this is all knew ...rode the Tehilim)

And the magic appears, one day a brother look for fight with me, very hard but I rode tehilim and wow. I'm not quite sure what to say. I think a lot of people on this forum have stories inside that they have not yet shared. Thank you for sharing. I hope it helps you.

9/14

GYE - Guard Your Eyes Generated: 21 August, 2025, 00:18 Re: into the mist Posted by inastruggle - 31 May 2013 23:51 thanks for sharing, i feel the same as gibbor, not sure what to say. We're here for you, but do you have someone in real life like a therapist or a rebbi? good shabbos Re: into the mist Posted by breath - 03 Jun 2013 05:39 since I supposed to be part of a great and respectable family, I never NEVER talk about what happened inside my house, so I lie to everyone but for my very best friend I told them that is a long story. in fact, this is the second time, I talk about my childhood (the first time was also on Internet)

...and truth is I would be a real coward to said I have excuse to have been stuck with this sin because some guy really suffer from worst situation like chikd abuse, so I won't say "it is not my fault, I'm a good guy with child issue "I choose the easy way to escape this but you know, as you realized, I am used to think and fight by myself, alone.so yeah it felt very good to talk about this.

Generated: 21 August, 2025, 00:	ປ:18
---------------------------------	------

misery, and now it's my job to get away (but I realized I can't do it on my own ...)

few years ago (2005 I think) I discover manga (Japanese comics) it is full of loser who become great hero (every kid think he is a loser, easy to identified.

I kinda become an otaku, and I knew there is a 18+ part in japanim world but I stay away for many years till one day I pick a look because "I was curious to see how it look like" seriously guys, this was the excuse YH used yo trap me,

I didn't like it and promise me to never come back, like six weeks later I came back.

====

Re: into the mist

Posted by Chachaman - 03 Jun 2013 09:17

Wow. Like others, I don't quite know what to say.

"..and truth is I would be a real coward to said I have excuse to have been stuck with this sin because some guy really suffer from worst situation like chikd abuse, so I won't say "it is not my fault, I'm a good guy with child issue "I choose the easy way to escape this misery, and now it's my job to get away (but I realized I can't do it on my own ...)"

Though focusing on the past can help us in recovery, especially in identifying issues motivating it, I don't know if it's helpful to judge ourselves if we should or shouldn't have gotten ourselves into shmutz: I'ma'aseh, we did, and we can't necessarily change the past.

Do you think it would be helpful to open up to a therapist?

====