~~Keep building them trucks one smiley at a time~~

DAY 3 my friends!!

it was the after yom tuv feeling compounded with having to attend to something for a families unfiltered computer and my addicted foggy mind told me "ah no need to call someone before you go onto this, it will be quick" then booms.

we gotto reexaminethe tools and move on

Thank you for sharing and reminding me that I am powerless over lust, regardless of how much sobriety I have.

HaShem should be with you.

dear brother

yeah an unfiltered computer is dangerous for anyone, specially for me after years of addiction

so i shall know from your post to run a mile thanks

by the way, that alone that you took the courage to acknowledge that, shows, that you know for a hard fact that you yourself with your own ability, are totally powerless over lust, after so many times trying to get over it, you still fell, and you are admitting it, just shows, "I AM POWERLESS OVER LUST, I GIVE UP, I CANT WIN THAT WAR WITH MY OWN POWER"

so now we need to find a power that is greater then our yetzer hora of lust, which CAN win the war and we just have to be sincere with ourselves about it then hashem will come into our picture and help us, if we ask for his help and we shall cling to hashem for dear life, as thats the only option left for us, if we ever think of getting out of this mess!

does that make any sense to you?

Shmeichel,

Well written!

If Bro doesn't respond, it is because this thread has been dormant for over a year; I have a habit of bringin' up old posts every once in a while. This one was to remind me of my belief that God helps one who helps himself.
