I hello everyone my life is not really intereseting so i am not going to relate you my all life but actually in some twisted ways it s funny. i realize now that i am not alone off course i knew that other peoples have also issues in this area but i always thought that they haven't the same than me and that mine was more complicate and that other people are not so adict than me, and they don't feel the same shem and those issues doesn't destroy their life but now i realize that i was wrong their are a lot of people who have the same issues and the finaly won on their own yetzer hara and it give me hope than me like all the other i have a chance to go through! And just for that i am greatful to all of you! It s just the begining for me but i hope that in 90 days my real life will start!!!

thats an excellent starting wow! you came to a realization in a wink, what others only realize after being here for months

you are so special, good luck with your 90 days journey

keep us posted of your daily struggles

we all went or are going thru this journey

it would be of a lot of help to you to open up a tiny bit, to share what are your struggles, what brought you here

Welcome aboard. Make yourself comfortable here. We all can relate and no matter what your story is there will be people that shared similar experiences.

Hatzlacha on your journey.

Welcome help! (we should always welcome help, even when we don't want it)

Opening up is not only about others knowing our story, it is very much about ourselves really realizing our own story.

Don't be shy, how long have you been struggling? What have you tried in the past? What's the plan for the future?

KOP!! KOMT!!
