Hi I was told it might help to post on this forum and help is what i need... Ive been on gye for less than a year and ive been trying to beat the 90 day challenge for some time now(less than a year i beleive) ive made it once till 80,70 20 a bunch of times but keep falling. The dilemma im facing now is am i an addict or not, and if i am or not what does that change i my search to conquer this yetzer harah or at least subdue it. Im married with a kid and im so frustrated that i keep falling and doing these things that are bad for me and feel like i cant help myself. Anyways, suggestions chizuk and conversation is welcome. Thanks in advance comes back... ). I hope he

You still out there Anon?

I had another good new thread idea - "A systematic study of why ppl start a new thread and then disappear" dammit, mark. how the hell did you beat me to the post again???

I hate to say it, but I'm with Cords on this one (although I'm one of the offenders

PA, I believe that mark sees your replies before you can post again.

He is a fast trucker.

As for anone, It's great that you keep ~~try~~ing trucking. And it's also great that you have a loving and caring, supportive wife. I would suggest reading the handbook. Hatzlacha...Shmuly.

Please note: I am not a therapist. I am merely telling you KOT. Shmuly
