

hello

Posted by my foot - 08 Jun 2016 18:00

---

hi every one im new to this whole buisnnes but lemme tell u one thing im awed by all of u out there how u manage to do only the one above knows

ive been exposed to the murky world of sex and pornography at the tender young age of 11 by a so called friend (my foot!!) and since then i am struggling like an idiot for an illness i didnt even know exsited but some how through hashems help i stubbled on to this website and i really hope it will help me overcome this flippin illness thats been strangling me since the 11

my current problems are internet addiction and shmiras eineim i would love to hear what worked for any one and how they came over it

=====

Re: hello

Posted by inastruggle - 14 Jun 2016 16:18

---

my foot wrote on 14 Jun 2016 10:37:

sorry skeptical but thats pretty discouraging to see that you r here already 4 years and u still have the same name

He isn't skeptical anymore, that's his point. He didn't stick it it out, he realized that he actually can stop and took steps to do so. I think the reason he didn't change his name was because it would cause confusion.

Right skeps?

=====

Re: hello

Posted by skeptical - 17 Jun 2016 01:04

---

Sorry, I've been really busy with work, and haven't had time to come on here.

I don't believe in changing names on here. It's hard enough for people to keep track of who is who, plus, I think it's helpful to others to be able to see a person's journey from skeptical to being healthy, boruch Hashem.

One thing to think about: when I first joined GYE, I would never have thought that the word Moderator would appear under my name.

=====

Re: hello

Posted by Birshusi - 17 Jun 2016 01:39

---

Good to see another bochur on here.

I know you're out there.

I joined GYE the week before Pesach, during bein hazmanim, which is generally a disaster for me because of all the free time I have, which I waste on the computer. But thanks to everyone here, I've been clean from porn ever since. Not to say that I've been flying high; I've had some rough days, especially since the zman started.

For me, just reading the forums and taking part in the conversations has helped me to gain a better attitude about my struggle. The most important thing for me is the ability to "speak" my mind, express my feelings, and get support and good advice from everyone here.

I hope you stick around, and Hashem will help you to get yourself to the taharah you seek.

=====