

Introduction

Posted by Dovid824 - 06 Jul 2016 11:25

.

=====
=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by Markz - 06 Jul 2016 11:42

Welcome to our illustrious club

Hey, whenever you're ready...

I just want to point out although I'm not a 12 stepper

However a large proportion of gye recoverers are avid steppers, based on the SA white book and the AA wine book

If that's the route you end up taking, it apparently gleans a totally new highly inspiring connection / relationship with Gd.

Is that something that you'd like to invest in?

=====
=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by cordnoy - 06 Jul 2016 13:23

Welcome,

B'hatzlachah.

=====

=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by Gevura Shebyesod - 06 Jul 2016 15:50

Markz wrote on 06 Jul 2016 11:42:

...the AA wine book...

Welcome!

=====

=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by gibbor120 - 06 Jul 2016 17:19

Wow! Welcome! This is a great place. I wish you much success.

=====

=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by truevision - 06 Jul 2016 18:59

~~I prefer bourbon but Whatever Works...~~

Welcome to the community. You have truly shown Hashem that you are heading in the right direction. Not only have you become observant but you even show the desire to sanctify yourself. Wishing you much hatzlocha. Remember to always speak to Hashem.

=====

=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by yiraishamaim - 06 Jul 2016 20:20

Dovid I am so happy you've come aboard.

You are clearly looking for meaning.

GYE can be a springboard for REAL growth -the kind you feel in the depths of your soul.

=====

=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by Markz - 06 Jul 2016 21:24

Dovid it's easier for me if you keep your posts in 1 thread so I can sit back and watch how you can weave an amazing story

I saw the term "White Book" in another post. Does that refer to the GYE Handbook ("Guard Your Eyes Handbook Dec 2012.pdf")?

And in another post someone mentioned focusing on finding root causes for behavior such as masturbation, which is an idea I hadn't considered. In other areas of observance, my approach has been "Do it (or don't do it) because it's a commandment from Hashem," but that's not enough in this case, so looking deeper may help.

Does the Handbook go into detail on that? If not, are there other references that address that?

The white book I mentioned is not the handbook

Its the SA book which can be found 24/7 on the "Free Towing" page below - See #3 Great Links

=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by rebyid31 - 06 Jul 2016 21:25

welcome we are all bailei tshuveh (hopefully)!

=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by Dovid824 - 07 Jul 2016 11:05

.

=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by Dovid824 - 26 Jul 2016 20:48

.

=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by cordnoy - 26 Jul 2016 21:08

Dovid824 wrote on 26 Jul 2016 20:48:

One of my cats recently urinated on some magazines (with improper content) that I have. I

My cats are somewhat connected with my return to the Torah, but if I go into the details on that, you may think I'm insane.

wonder if that was a Message.
It was.

Warning: Spoiler!

=====
=====

Re: Introduction
Posted by Dovid824 - 27 Jul 2016 14:55

.

=====
=====

Re: Introduction
Posted by cordnoy - 27 Jul 2016 15:52

Dovid824 wrote on 27 Jul 2016 14:55:

Don't have cats!

In the interest of resolving ambiguity, does that mean that you have no cats, or that you recommend not having cats?

It means that I made a joke.

=====
=====

Re: Introduction

Posted by Eyeglasses - 27 Jul 2016 15:59

Every joke has something serious to it

=====
=====