Welcome! Make sure to follow the steps and build your barriers to further yourself from your addiction! Theres a lot of great people here and tools, Don't be scared to share and expose your situation so people can help you in w/e way they can. I would start by opening up about yourself. Good luck in your journey!

Hello there and welcome. At first sharing and opening up can be daunting. Kudos for posting. You can start by telling us a little about your struggles, (sans personal details of course) and what you have tried to do to stop. Many here can attest to similar circumstances and what they have done to help them. Good luck and keep climbing:)

You took a good first step by joining GYE, may this lead to many more steps upwards.

You're in the right place brother. Welcome!
