

Hashem might send my salvation here
Posted by ahavayirah - 06 Dec 2016 15:47

I am sure this will sound common but it's still a very unique struggle.

I have everything a person can need. Family, parnassah, health, and even many good ruchnius things.

But from the other side I have an extreme struggle with things related to lust, and internet is not the problem. I only work with filtered computers, and I even have a web chaver on my main computers.

The reason I am coming here now is that I have now a major nisayon in an inyan of kedusha and I can either fall very badly or grow tremendously if I overcome and build further to become a person that acts the way hashem wants.

If you read this message and can offer support - I will owe you my life!

Not important to who? I have trouble making any sense out of your post without details.
