Hi guys, so I started watching inappropriate things at age 16, at first used to just watch a few months later I started wasting seed, I didn't know it was wrong in beginning and got hooked, once I learned it was a terrible sin I wanted to stop and never quite good at it, the most I've gone is about 7 months, I though I would stop once I got married but didn't, then had a kid and still not able to control it, I go good for a few weeks and then when I fall it's several times and then I repeat the cycle again, it's gotten to the point when my lust is so big that I can wake up at 5/6am and go on the computer and start, I have even done it on the job a few times, I have the strongest filters set up and still manage to break them when I really become desperate or find a computer at home that does not have a filter, I'm trying to overcome this but it's becoming very depressing and difficult and keeps me thinking that I will lose everything that's good in my life due to this

Welcome! I can totally relate. My longest "streak" before marriage was also about 7 months. I also could not stop even after I got married. I tried many times, but it never lasted. Finally, my wife caught me, which was hell on earth at the time, but ultimately made our marriage much stronger. I found GYE and have been sober now for 7 1/2 years. You can check out the links in my signature. Finding GYE was a turning point for me. Read the handbook. Keep sharing on the forum.

Ah, the "marriage fixes everything" clause. I'm sorry you had to come to the same crashing Welcome! Pick it up and haul yourself to the articles, forums, VIDEOS, and really try define your level of dependency. Then you'll know which tools are most effective.

Have you tried anything proactive? Like learning or mussar or therapy?
