It's definitely a sad story.

Checkout the handbook and start using GYE.

Life is not over yet, You will enjoy the life ahead if you start now doing the right things.

A lot of us here when we came on here were definite that they will never be sober and that no chance for them.

Hello brother.

Welcome to the forum and welcome to a place where you can share and grow.

We are here to support you in your journey.

Have you had the chance to speak to a professional (therapist) about this yet properly?

There are many here with similar experiences to yours and they are, like all of us, getting to a better place over time...

As the guys here say Keep on Trucking!

Smile, Hashem loves you!

Welcome aboard brother! Life is worth living, I've been very far down the road of "life sucks I wanna die" and I discovered how false it is. A big help was therapy (called DBT). HATZLACHA, DON'T GIVE UP! Keep showing up, keep posting!
