

unmarried lust has no cure.

To claim to have a cure for a lustful unmarried man is a deception.

a lustful man must first get married and then try to cure his lustfulness.

There are quite a few successful single guys on this site that would beg to differ.

I hope some of the single chevra heresee this post. There are guys doing great - I mean some are even in the hundreds of days. Even those with smaller numbers have found methods to control/surrender and really feel good about themselves. Shlomo, 360GYE, Moshiach, (and many more - just i dint remember all the usernames) where are you? Come help this new member.

i am skeptical .

maybe some single guys claim to be successful.

but have they shown you proof of their success ?

The lustful married men are suffering from gluttony.

there maybe a GYE cure for gluttony but there is no GYE cure for hunger.

the lustful unmarried men are hungry for intimacy and the only cure for that is marriage.

karma, being skeptical of the claims of anonymous GYE members is a healthy type of skepticism.

I agree with you...

that misery loves company

I can't agree with your theory unless you're saying you're married and you see it helps you. But it wouldn't necessarily prove anything if you're still in sheva brachot, would it?

Markz, the likelihood of a 54 year old orthodox jew marrying or even going out on a date is slim to none.

But when and if I do you will hear from me.
